

[ABBREVIATED NONMOLDED ADHESIVE CONDOM]

Abstract

An abbreviated condom that does not exceed the neckline of the penis. The present invention provides a secure contraceptive device, yet it still allows for the increased pleasure and the natural feeling for both people during intercourse. The present invention has an adhesive application that secures it around the head and neck of the penis, which prevents seepage of semen, it prevents the present invention from slipping off the penis during intercourse and it provides strong support to avoid breaking and tearing of the present invention. The tip of the present invention provides a narrow and closed end configuration with ample room on the closed end to collect seminal fluid. Following the tip, the present invention widens to fit over the glans of the penis. The present invention aids in the prevention of pregnancies and spread of STDs.